Armed Forces Face-Lift Slated

OTTAWA (CP)—Defense Minister Heffer today announced a five-year weapons program for the armed forces totalling about $1.5 billion.

He said in a statement that the 1965-70 program is designed to re-equip and improve the mobility of the army, provide an adequate air and sea force for immediate defence, and to ensure an adequate tactical jet aircraft and helicopter force to meet the needs of the army and navy.

Most of the new equipment program has been approved by the cabinet and is expected to be completed by 1970.

One of two new defense acquisitions of the Canadian Forces is a new helicopter to replace the army's seven-year-old Bell and the planned purchase of about 150 of a conventional helicopter to replace the HMCS Grise on the west coast.

Major items in the program announced by Mr. Heffer and Associate Defense Minister Gaudin.

Scant Clues Found So Far After $511,000 Haul By Bandits

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Two jackets, a pair of pants and a shirt provided scant clues today in the search for three gunmen who escaped Monday with more than $500,000 in cash.

Police said today they had no description of the men except that they were white and, in the words of a witness "appeared to be past their youth."

The clothing, identified by the victims, was found lying on a road on the outskirts of this city of 143,000, 10 miles west of New York City.

The men, wearing Halloween masks, took over a Roman Catholic Church rectory during a church service, held four priests and a janitor at gunpoint, ambushed two bank messengers as they entered the rectory, and escaped with $511,000 in cash from the bank truck and $1,700 in church funds.

Working swiftly and speaking rarely, the two vanished less than an hour after they drove up to the rectory adjoining St. Anthony's Church about 4 1/2 a.m.

Deputy Police Chief William Ludwig said the robbery, considered the biggest in New Jersey history, was the work of professionals who were well-versed in the route and schedule of the bank messengers.

The panel bank truck, equipped with an alarm system, was in its normal morning run from the main office of the National Bank of Pennsylvania County to deliver cash to three branch banks. The schedule called for stops at three churches to pick up Sunday collection money before going to the branch banks.

St. Anthony's church was the last one.

Tough First Day Of Winter: Snow And Ice Grip Country

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A snow-laden gale swept the Atlantic Coast Monday as winter officially came to Canada.

More Snow For Valley

Residents of the Okanagan can expect snow today and Wednesday, with a risk of freezing rain in the Okanagan Valley tonight and Wednesday, continuing cold, the Vancouver weather office said today.

In Kelowna, there was 3.8 inches of snowfall. The high-low temperature reading was 23 and 19, compared to a high of 29 and a low of 31 a year ago with a trace of rain.

Snow will continue to be the dominant feature of the weather scene throughout British Columbia for at least the next 24 hours.

Cold air is expected to remain firmly entrenched over most of the province although further moderation will take place on Vancouver Island.

Moisture laden clouds will spread over southern parts of the province from disturbances moving rapidly eastward across Washington.

Low tonight and high Wednesday at Penticton is expected to be 25 and 30.

There were freezing temperatures on the Prairies, bleak skies in central Canada and a gradually disappearing chance for a white Christmas in Vancouver.

Eighteen inches of snow fell on Cape Breton Island and 10 inches in eastern Newfoundland whirled up by 60-mph winds. Snow also fell in the mid-West and in scattered areas of Ontario and Quebec.

In Vancouver, a 15-inch fall during the weekend held promise for the Pacific Coast city of its first white Christmas in 13 years. But the snow was disappearing Monday night under rain and temperatures above the freezing point.

Monday was the shortest day of the year, and it could hardly have been more unpleasant in Cape Breton, which bore the brunt of the Atlantic storm.

Buses and trains ground to a halt as gale-force winds piled up drifts and forced cancellation of 11 Air Canada flights into and out of Sydney. In the city and neighboring Glace Bay, New Waterford, Dominion and North Sydney, schools were closed at noon and stores, normally open late for Christmas shopping, closed early to allow employees to fight their way home.

Heavy snow fell at St. John's, Nfld., and on the Avalon Peninsula. A 10-inch snowfall was forecast for Newfoundland before the storm blows itself out some time today.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT HELD AT SUNNYVALE

The annual Christmas concert for the Kelowna Sunnyvale students was held in their school on Britian Street today. There are 36 people taking part in the concert. The older group is singing the nativity scene, the younger ones are taking part in singing of Christmas carols. The children have been practicing for about a month for the play which they performed for their parents and a number of visitors. Santa Claus paid the students a visit after the play was over.

He gave the 36 children each a gift which was donated and wrapped by the Staggies, a young women's service club in Kelowna. The parents provided candles and oranges for the children, which Santa gave out. —Courier Photo.

Sharp Legal Hassle Snags Dorion Scandal Hearing

OTTAWA (CP)—A judicial inquiry into charges of attempted bribery and coercion by assistants to federal cabinet ministers struck a temporary snag today as public hearings resumed under Chief Justice Frederic Dorion of the Quebec Superior Court.

Several lawyers raised strenuous objections against permitting Mrs. Pierre Lamontagne, 29-year-old wife of Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne who levelled the charges, to testify about a conversation with her husband last July 14.

Mr. Lamontagne testified last week that he awakened his wife about 3 or 4 a.m. July 15 to tell her that Raymond Denis, at that time executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, offered him $20,000 to drop his opposition to bail for a Montreal man, whose extradition to the United States was sought in connection with narcotics smuggling.

Mrs. Lamontagne was counsel for the American government in proceedings to extradite Louis-Robert, wanted in Texas, on charges which linked his name with Mafia international crime syndicate.

Mrs. Lamontagne, a short blonde dressed in a pink suit and navy blue pillbox hat, took the stand to testify about coming to Ottawa last July 14 with her husband at Mr. Denis' request. She testified in English.

Chief Justice Dorion resolved the point after a 50-minute legal argument among the lawyers by ruling out any kind of hearsay evidence.

Such evidence, he said, constitutes a "very weak kind of evidence" and he could see no reason to set aside the normal rules of evidence.

The 10,000-ton converted tanker, manned mostly by a crew from Spain, left Vancouver Dec. 9 for Yokohama.

Three S.O.S. calls were sent from her Thursday night, saying she was aground in a storm with waves 20 to 30 feet high blown by wind of more than 40 knots.

The Tetsuharu Maru, a Japanese ore carrier, went to the scene and the navy tug Tawakoni from Adak joined the search, but they found nothing.

An oil slick and pieces of lumber, which might have come from a ship were found two days later.

Sunday the pilot of a navy search plane reported seeing the battered wreckage.

NEW YORK (AP)—For more than 24 hours after most of his crew had abandoned ship, the captain of the crippled American freighter Smith Voyager battled to keep her afloat in the stormy Atlantic.

But there was little he could do for his 7,600-ton vessel, so Capt. Frederick Mohle boarded a rescue ship Monday with three companions who had remained with him.

IT WAS CUTE AND PERSONAL

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (AP)—William Ottensell was reading a newspaper in the dentist's office Friday and noticed as usual to the "personals" column.

The second item in the column read: "William Ottensell, you're going to be a daddy. Merry Christmas, Sheriff."

Mrs. Sherri Ottensell explained later that she thought it was a "cute way" to tell him that their first child is due in July.

Slight Cut In Canada's Deficits

OTTAWA (CP)—The earlier forecast of a $600,000,000 or bigger 1964 deficit on Canada's international trade balance has been cut slightly today.

Government economists said it now appears that the deficit will be about the same as last year. The 1963 deficit originally was estimated as $521,000,000 but now has been revised upward to $537,000,000.

The slightly improved outlook for 1964 was based mainly on the fact that the underlying balance of payments in the third quarter of this year was a $219,000,000 surplus on the current account of the Canadian balance of payments in the third quarter of this year.

It compares with a relatively small $16,000,000 surplus in the same period last year and a string of third-quarter deficits in the 1953-54 period.

After nine months of 1964, Canada was left with a $290,000,000 deficit on current account compared with $436,000,000 at the same point last year.

Finance Minister Gordon had made the forecast of a higher 1964 deficit. Kelowna's Centennial project city in a project. None expressed a wish to do so.

Charles D. Gaddes, chairman of the Kelowna Centennial committee, set up on instructions from Mayor H. F. Parkinson on January 27, 1964. Monday night presented a brief to city council recommending the museum and the parks and recreation Council on a unanimous motion accepted the brief and adopted the museum as the centennial project.

The 12-page brief is the result of 22 meetings of the committee. A total of six projects were suggested by organizations in the city and each is considered for $50,000 and two in the brief.

Reasons for rejecting the other projects are given.

The committee suggested that had funds been available, they would have recommended a swimming pool, a Y.M.C.A. and the museum.

PROJECTS

Projects discussed included the acquisition of land for future park or recreational use, a boys' club, a chronic hospital, an indoor swimming pool, a Y.M.C.A. and the museum.

North Okanagan Folk "Asleep" To Potential Of Mica Creek Job

VERNON—Ralph Hermansen, 50, Mr. Hermansen had just returned from Vancouver where he had been in contact with top B.C. Hydro officials. He said that the information he had, which SODICA reports Mr. Hermansen was passing along to the North Okanagan community, was that the people in the North Okanagan were "all sound asleep" because they weren't getting ready for the tremendous expansion that will take place solely in the interest of the Mica Creek.

Mr. Hermansen declared, "there will be 300 men working there by April 1, 1965, and by July 100 men, and in Sept. 1, realized the tremendous expansion that was going to take place."

Why, by 1966 there will be 4,000 men working at Mica and this will go up to 7,000 men by 1967. It is a well-known fact that it requires another man to provide services such as restaurants, laundries, and many other things for each working man so this means by the year 1966 there will be an increase of 14,000 people brought about by the building of the Mica Dam," stated Mr. Hermansen.

Inquiry Planned In Freezing Death

VERNON—Vernon coroner H. Harry Norman reported Friday an inquiry will be held on Wednesday into the death of Thomas George Hale, age 79, found in bed frozen to death from sub-zero temperatures of about 15 below on Wednesday, in a shack on the outskirts of Vernon.

Roommate John Moore, age 66, was found dead and was rushed to Vernon Jubilee Hospital by ambulance. Hospital authorities reported Moore's condition was listed as "good."

Farmers, Ranchers Impressed With Business Managing Scheme

VERNON—Farmers and ranchers who attended meetings last week at Kelowna, Vernon and Arrow Lake, B.C. Department of Agriculture, were impressed with the business managing scheme introduced by Mr. Panaratz. He said farmers and ranchers are as critical as those in any other large business enterprise and must be based upon adequate financial records.

The newly designed loose leaf B.C. Department of Agriculture Farm Business Management Service, were apparently most favorably impressed with the program. Mr. Panaratz, research officer with the B.C. Department of Agriculture, explained that the program will be held throughout the province in January 1965. Two night meetings are scheduled during the year with another one-day workshop the following January to summarize the results.

Many Jobless After Snow

VANCOUVER (CP)—A series of snowstorms that lasted three days and dumped one to two feet of snow on many sections of British Columbia put 3,000 men out of work temporarily in the forest industry.

Announce New Healing Substance: Shrinks Piles

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinking) took place.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Ilo-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Ilo-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation II. Ask for it at all drug stores—money back guarantee.

O Canada! We Plough Through Snow For Thee!

Although there have been times when I have stood proud and even misty-eyed during the playing of O Canada, there are occasions during some years when I find myself muttering things about my native land which would cause a hardened sailor or a top sergeant to clasp his hands over his ears and recoil in horror.

The past week has been such a time. Ten below, a strong wind, snow, and more snow. This is why I left Ontario for the so-called sunny Okanagan. The best thing I can say about our weather for the past week is that it has been UNUSUAL and very bad, but not as bad as in other places, thank goodness. The prairies, for instance—and even Vancouver, too.

In this country, we recognize that we have a period which polite people call the winter driving season. How such a cantankerous, miserable and frustrating outrageous time of the year in this country can be described in such reserved terms has always been a mystery to me.

The coming of the motor car has done more to make the people of Canada a bit doubtful about their beloved land than any other single factor I can think of.

It seems to me that we have never really developed any outstanding patriots in this country since the advent of the automobile. If you are a driver, it is often hard to give the True North Strong and Free your full and undivided affection. No matter how loyal you may be to our glorious homeland, there are times during the year when you would gladly sell the entire ten provinces for a nickel and an old postcard from Hawaii. "Strong," it must mean that wind on Tuesday last. Free? Just who would have wanted it last week?

We stand on guard for thee. Just why bother? Who would be out in this weather to guard it from?

Oh! Throughout the rest of the year there is much to admire in our great land. Even in winter if you can get the cursed motor car out of your mind, Canada can offer some thrilling prospects—if you are in the mood to appreciate them.

Each year our safety experts provide us with a long list of hints for winter driving. These hints are all very logical and practical, but they do not cover such things as the sneaky little lump of snow and ice that shove the rear end of your car sideways to scrape a fender at the very moment you are trying to drive it through the doorway of your garage.

Neither do they dwell at any length on the infuriating matter of the parking brake which suddenly decides to get frozen up in a closed position on the very morning you are 15 minutes late. Nor do they explain why the door-lock on the car gets frozen just when you are in the biggest hurry.

On the ventilating battle which decided to stay open admitting the gales from the great outdoors, on the very day when the mercury has decided to retreat below the zero mark.

The big problems of winter driving in Canada most of us can meet with a smile. We can press through a blizzard or crawl to our destination during a sleet storm with chins up and a certain perverse pride in our rugged climate and the challenges it provides.

But it is the sneaky little things about winter driving which wear us down and make us wonder fervently how the folks who dwell south—or west—are doing under the palm trees.

The only available parking space after a heavy snow, for instance, which beckons to us attractively, lures us into it and then traps us there, when we try to leave, like a smooth on a piece of flypaper.

These are the things performed by a host of small Canadian winter gentlemen in fur-lined parkas and mukluks, which drive a motorist in this country to the point where he would jump out and start kicking his car if he wasn't afraid his foot would freeze to the fender.

Each fall, I note, the garages invite us to come on in and let them winterize our cars. In many respects they do a fairly good job of it.

But what they need to do the thing properly, apart from a good staff of experienced mechanics, is a kind of Indian or Eskimo witch doctor who can perform certain ceremonies which will chase out the little frost demons who abruptly turn off the fan of your heater, insert ice cubes in your gas line or steam up your back window at the precise moment you are backing into a parking space from which you will probably have to be extracted by a tow truck.

O Canada!
O Winter!
O Rats!!

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Exercise Gently For "Rheumatiz"

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

I have a severe case of arthritis, with quite a bit of pain in spite of medication prescribed by my doctor. Would rest help? I am 45 and secretary to a busy executive.

What do you think of the old home remedy of vinegar and honey in a glass of water, as a friend suggested to me?—MRS. J.H.

Arthritis is a very prevalent ailment; it is also a very onerous one. It's the "rheumatiz" of our forebears.

We have to get along with it, but that does NOT mean that nothing can be done about it. We can do things to help, but we cannot expect a cure.

True, there are some cases which can be cleared up very effectively. Gouty arthritis can be controlled by attacking the original gout. Many times there are joint pains which turn out to be something other than arthritis, and can be corrected.

But for what we might call the ordinary type of arthritis, or osteoarthritis, the goal isn't to cure, but to keep it from giving too much trouble.

Such arthritis tends to come and go—not completely, perhaps, but to vary in severity according to the amount of strain placed on the afflicted joint or joints, on the weather, on how interested we are in things around us, and so on.

With osteoarthritis, medication can help control the pain, but it is important not to let the joints become stiffened. Move them! Even if it hurts in the morning, move them until they begin to limber up a little.

But when I say move them, I don't mean to subject them to violent, prolonged exercise. The movement helps; excessive exercise more probably will only make the condition worse.

Move them enough to keep them flexible. Otherwise rest them, or protect them from too much strain. Yes, rest helps.

So does heat, whether dry or moist. Heating pads, hot soaks in the tub, sitting in the sun—heat eases the inflammation and in turn makes movement easier which again in turn keeps the joints flexible. But just sitting and not moving at all permits the joints to become stiffer and stiffer, and makes movement that much more painful in the future.

Many medications have been tried and several have passed the test of time, but to this day nobody has evolved anything better than aspirin, used as required.

Vinegar and honey? It's an old idea that comes down to us from the days when we didn't have anything that would help. Medically it has no effect at all on arthritis. But if a person convince himself that something is going to help him, then he will believe that it does. That's why doctors of the horse-and-buggy age managed to "cure" minor ailments with sugar pills and reassurance.

Dear Dr. Molner: A doctor told me I had infected tubes. I'd like to know if marriage and children will help this trouble.—WANT TO GET MARRIED Infection in the tubes is likely to interfere with pregnancy. There is no reason to think that pregnancy will correct the problem. Such infections can usually be treated readily if not neglected too long. I suggest that you get treatment now.

MEDICARE FIRST
It will begin with a "Medicare" plan to provide limited hospital care for over-65s out of Social Security funds. This has little relation to Medicare as it is understood in Canada. It will

WASHINGTON CALLING

Now What About "Great Society?"

By GORDON DONALDSON
Daily Courier Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON (Special)—During the election campaign Lyndon Johnson number hands with an incredible number of people and told them "Y'all come and see us at the White House."

Next month it seems almost certain that he will take them at his word and come to Washington for the inauguration ceremonies Jan. 20.

For weeks now word has been hammering together huge stands around the White House and the capital buildings along the river are being scrubbed and painted and the city is braced for a Texas-sized celebration.

To make the event slightly less like a coronation LBJ has announced he will wear the traditional top hat and striped pants and wear a business suit for the swearing-in ceremony, at the capital and a dinner raised instead of that at the inaugural ball.

That caused vast distress in editorial circles and panned Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey who had just entered a halfway state.

But it was the time for the new Johnson administration when the president's friends will be foundering in disappointment and downhearted.

After Jan. 20 we will hear more and more about the "great society" which is Johnson's goal. He talked knowledge of it during the campaign time when the fruits of labor and the nation's bounty will be shared by all. But was never too specific.

He won the electoral victory not on promises of big pay performance during the 11 months in office, but largely because voters were starved for Barry Goldwater.

Johnson won the respect but has not yet earned the love of the American people.

His hero Franklin Roosevelt won a similar landslide victory in 1936 but promptly antagonized Congress and public by "packing" the Supreme Court with his appointees.

Johnson learned this lesson and plans to move very cautiously at home and abroad. The great society will have to come gradually and LBJ accepts that it will not be attained during his presidency. He is trying to shed his reputation as the greatest persuader, arm-twister and backslider who ever ruled the U.S. Senate. Johnson was always a successful parliamentary leader. Now he is out of the U.S. "Parliament" a mile away along Pennsylvania avenue—and he must change his tactics. There will be no high-pressure methods used in selling his great society to Congress.

not cover doctors' bills, yet the American Medical Association furiously denounces it as the beginnings of "socialized" medicine.

Then comes another attack on Johnson's "great society" plan for health insurance. A plan for health insurance, which would be financed by a payroll tax on the employer and the employee, is being attacked by the medical profession.

After that he will face two more health insurance proposals. One is a plan for health insurance for the aged, and the other is a plan for health insurance for the poor.

Safeguards Needed

The government announcement that a free vote on the abolition of capital punishment will be allowed next session is long overdue. The law of this country provides the death penalty for persons convicted of certain types of murder. In recent years governments have not allowed the law to take its course and we have had the situation where the death penalty is accepted in principle but not in practice. The courts fix one penalty and the cabinet imposes another.

During the years of the Diefenbaker regime the cabinet allowed only about one fifth of the death sentences to be carried out. Since the Liberal government came into power no convicted murderer has gone to the gallows. It is time the law and practice were brought into conformity.

It is right that a free vote should be allowed. Imposition of the death penalty should have no relationship to party politics. It is a matter for the conscience of the nation and each member should be free to vote in accordance with his own beliefs, unhampered by party loyalty or discipline.

The movement for the abolition of capital punishment is gaining ground in many parts of the civilized world. Many states in the U.S. have already taken the step. Britain once abolished hanging, restored it and is now considering abolition once again. There is little risk in predicting that, when the vote comes, Canada's parliament will turn thumbs down on the death penalty.

The vote will by no means be unanimous and there will be much rehashing of the old arguments about whether execution acts as a deterrent against murder. These arguments have always been inconclusive for it has never been proved that the incidence of murder rises when the death penalty is abolished.

It seems most people agree . . . in principle . . . that cold bloodedly putting a human being to death is a relic of a barbarous age. Yet when a particularly brutal slaying is committed the consensus is that "hanging is too good" for the perpetrator. Buried deep in the consciousness of most of us is a latent desire for vengeance varnished over to shine as justice.

Many of those who oppose the abolition of the death penalty are uneasy about the parole system whereby, in the course of time, a convicted murderer who has been sentenced to a life term is set free by a compassionate and forgiving society, perhaps to kill again. It has happened.

The misgivings of these people could be allayed if rigid restrictions were placed on the paroling of murderers. For certain types of killers—such as those who deliberately arm themselves in preparation for dealing out death during holdups or robberies—no parole should be possible. For such, a life sentence should mean exactly what the words imply. Those who commit so-called crimes of passion or cause death in a burst of ungovernable rage are hardly likely to repeat.

In an enlightened age the lust for vengeance is waning. But this does not mean that society must allow itself to be struck by the same rattlesnake twice. — Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

LETTER TO EDITOR

ALDERMAN RAPPED

Sir: I attended the Vernon stewardship meeting and noted that Ald. Palmer displayed another one of his weekly exhibitions at the mayor's just because the mayor had misread to mention a few words in his hour-and-a-half long address.

I cannot understand why Ald. Palmer chooses to be so insulting towards the mayor.

If he keeps this up in the new year I hear that a group of citizens will march on the city hall and demand his resignation. The council has no idea how fed up the people of Vernon are.

Remember, Ald. Palmer, that Mayor Rice has been elected by a very large majority and if he was to run for mayor again he would be elected by a still bigger majority. This is due to the fact that he has never insulted anyone, not even Ald. Palmer who has chosen to play smart Alec with him.

ANN LANDERS

Romances Don't Start On Examination Tables

Dear Ann Landers: I agree with you about 95 per cent of the time. Today I feel the need to say straight.

Your statement that doctors are immune to the charms of attractive women patients is ridiculous. If this were true no physician would be able to find a woman sexually attractive. And few physicians would ever be married.

I speak as an attorney who has maintained an active practice for 20 years. I've heard hundreds of complaints about physicians from women who have been subjected to questionable behaviour and comments during physical examinations. I believe that most doctors behave themselves in the office but many do become involved with female patients. I know this is true because my father and two brothers who are doctors have discussed it quite openly for years. Do you dare print this? — BARE FACTS

Dear B.F.: Any physician who could become sexually aroused by the sight of a female patient on his examining table is too unbalanced to be practising medicine. And if he survived even for a few years it would add up to a minor miracle.

Since there are thousands of physicians in this country, one must expect a few dinghies. Every field has them. I've heard some pretty wild stories about milkmen, postmen, plumbers and TV repairmen. Some stories are undoubtedly true, but most of the lurid tales are products of an over-worked imagination.

I would not say physicians are better behaved than lawyers, engineers or business executives, but I WOULD say that romantic involvements do not start on the examination tables.

Widows Of Politicians Sure Of Success In By-Elections

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A custom of the political life in Canada is that a widow stands for her husband's seat in a federal by-election she is almost sure to win.

Twice in 1964 widows of M.P.s were given the nomination to bring to life the number of widows on which this situation has arisen. The widows have been successful every time.

In November, New Brunswick elected its first woman M.P. when it sent the widow of Sherwood Hudeston to the Commons for Westmorland. Liberal Margaret Hudeston, a member of three successive House of Commons, was elected to succeed the late Harry Jones as Progressive Conservative member for Saskatchewan.

John Casselman wanted last August to be a Toronto stockbroker and now Mrs. Robert Wadda, wife of the late M.P., is a member of the Commons for the Conservatives in the seat of the late John A. Canadian Colt Hailed Outstanding Individual

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Northern Dancer—who else?—is the outstanding individual Canadian sports performer of 1964.

Not only was this three-year-old colt, for $25,000 at owner E. P. Taylor's annual yearling yearling sale, but he was a little horse—13.2 hands—and probably wouldn't be able to stand the rigors of racing. But he was a terror at the track and he returned to stud because of a freak injury, he's a potential millionaire.

The country's sports editors and sportscasters participating in the 30th annual Canadian Press year-end poll voted overwhelmingly in favor of the Dancer as the individual performer. Not only that, they said his brief but fantastic campaign on North American tracks provided the Canadian sports thrill of the year.

The majority of the 140 voters didn't bother to list a reason for their selection. But at the record, they said:

The horse that Taylor was stuck with became the greatest Canadian-born thoroughbred of the sport has known. He captured the imagination of Canadians who wouldn't know a foreleg from a saddle, and even wanted to parade him to city hall in Toronto.

English League Soccer Clubs Face Heavy Holiday Schedule

LONDON (Reuters) — The Christmas holiday games in English League soccer have traditionally provided a feast of unexpected results, and this year's double-header games may well see new leaders at the top of the first and second divisions.

Clubs at home next Saturday, meet the same opponents away on Monday, Dec. 23.

Manchester United, now without the goal-scoring genius of Denis Law because the Scottish international has been suspended for 25 days, lead the first division only on goal average from Leeds.

They are away to Sheffield United on Saturday, and despite their good record at Bramall Lane—they have not lost there in their last three visits—they will be fortunate to bring away a point this time. Before the old Trafford crowd three days later Matt Busby's team will be fighting to preserve a proud record of only one home defeat this season.

Leeds, last season's second division champions, is the surprise success of the top league

Tottenham Star Up On Carpet

LONDON (AP) — Jimmy Greaves, Tottenham Hotspur soccer star, received an official summons today to say whether it is true that he swears at referees.

The English Football Association said Greaves might be called before the disciplinary committee to explain remarks he has made to the press.

The former Milan star got himself into trouble by comment on the case of Johnny Haynes, Fulham captain. Haynes was suspended for 14 days for using bad language to a referee.

Greaves told reporters at the time:

"I shall call this referee a rude name tomorrow. I always do. I can't remember a match when someone hasn't called the referee a rude name. I hope we're not losing our sense of humor over this."

Numb Fingers Prompt Test

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts are experimenting with surgical gloves for their ball handlers.

Cold weather in Cleveland, where the Browns and Colts meet for the National Football League championship Dec. 27, is behind the idea.

The only problem is, as any surgeon would know, that once a player puts them on he has to keep them on. It would be too difficult and time-consuming to keep putting them on and taking them off.

MONTREAL (CP)—Duff Duff, who won his third National Hockey League uniform Wednesday night when he turned out with Montreal Canadiens, the result of a Montreal-New York four-player trade.

The Canadiens announced Monday night that Duff and minor-leaguer Dave McComb were acquired from the Rangers for Bill Hicke, a former Canadian, and Jean-Guy Morin, a former Montrealer of the American Hockey League.

Duff, 24, a left winger, went to the Rangers last season in a trade that sent Andy Bathgate to Toronto Maple Leafs. Duff had played with the Leafs for nine seasons before that.

His best season was in 1958-59 when he scored 29 goals and assisted on 24 others for a 53-point total. He had three goals and nine assists in 29 games this season with New York.

SAW LITTLE ACTION
Hicke, 26, was in the Canadiens lineup for 17 games earlier this season but had been used only occasionally. He had only one assist before he was sent to Cleveland two weeks ago.

Soviets Stave Off Late Oil King Rally

EDMONTON (CP)—The junior Edmonton Oil Kings, reinforced by six of their alumni and four intermediates, couldn't quite catch Russia's national team Monday night but their coach thinks the world amateur hockey champions can be beaten.

The Russians won the game 7-5. But they frittered away a five-goal lead, giving up two goals while they had a man advantage, and were hanging on the ropes until they fired an insurance goal into the empty net with 11 seconds remaining after the Oil Kings lifted their goaltender for an extra forward.

Edmonton coach Buster Brashaw praised the tourists' puck control and passing ability but found them less outstanding than he had been given to believe.

"They threw a lot of blind passes at us," he said, "and as soon as our defencemen changed their tactics a bit they couldn't complete passes of that type."

Brashaw felt Canadian teams shouldn't allow the Russians to dictate the tempo of play.

"You have to press them and they'll make mistakes. But they're well coached and in good condition. That was a lot of hockey games."

Unbeaten and tied only once in seven Canadian starts, the Oil Kings who faced the Russians before along with Brashaw, again missing the first two Russian drives.

But the Toronto-born netminder, loaned by the Canadian national team for the occasion, made 30 stops, 25 of them in the first two periods, compared with 23 by Russian goaltender Victor Tolmachev.

Blonde Veniamin Alexandrov, one of the veterans of the Russian lineup, scored the clinching goal on a lofted backhand from his own zone and set up the first two of the game, both with Harvey Fleming. Max Meistner, 45 seconds after the first period. He also assisted on a third goal by Alexander Ragulin.

Victor Tolmachev, Yuri Volkov, and Victor Yakushev were the other Russian marksmen.

Fleming was one of four players added from Red Deer, Ruston in the 1964 Olympics, scored one of the intermediate Central two of the Edmonton goals Alberta League.

Cheerful Words, Rare Deeds Spark Up Economy In U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—Optimistic words and unprecedented cheer from a year ago have sparked the U.S. economy this week.

Top officers of the big three automaking companies predicted a brighter 1967 as factories produced at a near-record clip and show room sales were reported at a high level.

Government figures put industrial production at an historic peak in November, and showed fourth-quarter employment at a high level.

Space Probe Going Well

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The Explorer 26 satellite soared into orbit today to measure space radiation and the threat of cosmic rays to man and machinery flying deep into space.

The 10-pound satellite was launched by a Titan II rocket from Cape Kennedy at 4 a.m. EST and is now orbiting 100 miles above the earth.

The flight control centre announced an hour later that the satellite was in orbit and was functioning properly.

Explorer 26 was aimed at taking 15,000 miles away from earth before it swings back as close as 200 miles at the low point of its orbit.

The satellite is designed to measure high energy radiation particles become trapped in the earth's magnetic field to form the Van Allen belt and the danger the belt poses to men and machinery flying future flights deep into space.

Opening lead—eight of clubs.

If you want to be a good dummy player you have to be a worrier. You can't take things easy just because a contract appears on the surface to be easy to make.

You have to do more than that to keep on getting the best possible results. You have to learn to worry about what might happen to you if the opponent's cards are abnormally distributed. Once you start thinking this way and have become a worrier, you then find that some of the contracts that might otherwise have been lost start coming through unscathed.

Take a case like this one where you're in six hearts and West leads a club. If you win it and lead a trump, as many players would do, you go down. West takes the ace, trumps another club which East ruffs, and you are minus 100 instead of being plus 1,650.

However, if you're a worrier you make the lead. When you win the club lead, you start worrying about what could happen that would defeat you. It doesn't take long to conclude that the only real danger in the hand is that one opponent or the other has a singleton club.

The club lead by West, in the face of North's bidding the suit, indicates that West is either trying to get a club ruff or trying to give his partner one.

The first thing to do is look for a countermeasure to prevent this from happening. Fortunately, something can be done about the matter.

You play a spade to the ace at trick two. Then you cash the ace of diamonds and ruff a diamond. Now you discard the club in the king of spades to prevent any catastrophe from befalling you. This clears the track for trump plays and you wind up making the slam with ease.

A little worrying at the right time can do a lot.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Another good day! Both sentimental and home affairs will be governed by fine influences. And where business matters are concerned, well-planned programs should work out extremely well.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that where career matters are concerned, past good efforts and those of the next two or three weeks could well attract the attention of those in authority, increasing your prestige and putting you in the way of promotion by the end of March. Further boosts along this line are presaged for late April, late October and early November.

Your financial position should be strong this year, with gains indicated between the last week of this month and late March; also in September, late October and late November. Two admonitions, however. Don't allow personalities to enter into financial dealings in September, and avoid extravagance during the first two weeks of April, mid-May and early June or you could upset the monetary apartment.

During the next 12 months you can look forward to extremely happy developments in your personal life. January, May, late June and late July should be lively from a romantic standpoint; the latter half of July, early September and December stimulating where social interests are concerned. Family and health matters will also be governed by beneficent influences. Do avoid anxiety and tension during the next month, however.

A child born on this day will be endowed with great energy and ambition; would make a fine executive.
